INTERNATIONAL MASTER IN SUPPLY CHAIN AND PURCHASING MANAGEMENT

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH

A JOINT PROGRAM WITH

MIP Politecnico di Milano and Audencia Nantes School of Management have joined forces to offer a European double degree, the only one of its kind in the world.

The aim of the programme is to train specialised managers in supply chain and purchasing who will be contributing to the development of companies in an international environment.

- > Dual degree qualification: A Specializing Master from Politecnico di Milano and a Master of Science from Audencia Nantes School of Management
- > 100% in English
- > Offered by two world-renowned institutions with international academic accreditations
- > International focus with exposure to global industries and professors from around the world
- > Practical focus with corporate participation
- > 20% of the programme concentrates on applied knowledge in leading industries
- > Two intakes per year
- > Professionally accredited by industry bodies like the Chartered Institute of Purchasing and Supply.

> GS1 is an international not-for-profit association with Member Organisations in over 100 countries. GS1 Italy, the Italian association that includes 35 thousand FMCG manufacturers and retailers, focuses its work on disseminating the standards adopted on a global level, developing new ideas and projects by calling the attention of the public opinion to key issues in order to stimulate beneficial dialogue between companies. Indicod-Ecr has been working with FMCG companies since 1978 and offers systems of common standards and services that create value and enhance efficiency, to help the modernisation of companies' network of every size and in every industry. All this brings clear advantages for the consumer.

IN THE WORDS OF OUR ALUMNI

Eric Aicardi
Italy

Since I finished my Bachelor degree in economics and management I wanted to continue my studies in the field of supply chain and purchasing management, and I truly believe that the choice of the MSCPM is the wisest I could have made. Not only the master has given me valuable insights on the subjects of supply chain and purchasing management but it has also contributed to my personal growth as a future professional and as a person. The multicultural environment, the right mix between theoretical and practical teaching, and the chance to live in both France and Italy, are only some of the reasons why I will never regret my choice.

Stefano Spinozzi
Italy

This master provides a complete and deeply overview of the best practices, advanced expertise and last trends of supply chain & purchasing with case studies, open discussions during the courses and group assignments, aimed to enhance your cohesion and collaboration with classmates from all over the world. It has also contributed to the evolution of my professional career through a highly effective career service: many companies were invited to the school for recruiting. One of these firms, Whirlpool Europe, visited MIP at the end of the semester, offering me an interview and afterwards a job as Strategic Sourcing Analyst for the EMEA region. I'm very satisfied for having chosen MSCPM and for the achievements accomplished thanks to Audencia and MIP.

Ambroise Philip
France

The MSCPM program is really winning because it combines best the managerial and technical approaches, giving to the students both analytical and managerial skills which are both crucial in the field of supply chain and purchasing management. Industry insights were also very well provided by the "sectoral approaches" course. Moreover, the great variety of professional and life experiences between professors, students and practitioners was definitely a great value added. Finally, it was also the opportunity for me to discover Milan, which is a very dynamic and inspiring city to live in. I'm currently working for a multinational FMCG company (Reckitt Benckiser) as Demand Planner, where I'm applying on a daily basis the frameworks I've learned during the program; and I'm sure this will help me to further my career.
